1990

Due to a declining enrollment that could not produce enough players to field a team, Niagara Catholic dropped it's football program for the 1990 season. This left the A division with only three teams and the whole association with only seven football playing schools. This is a far cry from 1970 when there was a total of eighteen schools fielding football teams. St. Josephs successfully defended their AA championship, while Turner-Carroll won their third straight A crown. In what has become a yearly event, the Monsignor Martin Association played a double-header in "Rich Stadium". This year the games were: St. Josephs vs St. Francis and Timon vs Canisius.
